Student Authors are invited to submit papers for a Student Paper Contest that will be held at the Thirty-Fifth Annual Asilomar Conference on Signals, Systems, and Computer. To be eligible for the Student Paper Contest the primary author on the paper must be a registered student at the time of submission, the paper must be identified for the student competition at the time of submission, and the paper must be presented at the conference by the student author. Student paper submissions should follow the same format and schedule specified for regular submissions in the Call for Papers, which is found on the conference web page. No more than one submission is allowed per student contributor for competition in the Student paper Contest. All submissions must be received by June 1, 2001.

Student papers will be selected from among the submissions for presentation at the conference in a special lecture session. Papers that are not selected for the Student Paper Contest will be considered for the regular program. Notifications of acceptance will be sent by late August 2001, and at that time authors will be informed if a student paper submission is accepted for competition in the contest. Final student papers will be due on October 22, 2001 in order to allow the judges to have ample time to evaluate the written papers. Judges will select first, second, and third place winners based on a combined evaluation of the written paper and the oral presentation. Winners will be announced during the conference and prizes will be awarded to the winners. Please note that prizes are awarded to the student author who presents the paper at the conference, but not to contributing co-authors. Student papers will be published in the Proceedings and will conform to the same size limits, formats, and deadlines specified for regular papers.
